

Strategic Programmes: Dragons' Den

TRUSTECH designed and delivered Dragons' Den style programmes to enable CCGs to capture, assess and evaluate innovative products and services that have been developed by commercial sector organisations.

The programmes provide a structured, repeatable and rigorous processes, calling on NHS expertise to ensure proposed solutions are properly assessed against NHS needs. This is supported by marketing and communications campaigns to ensure a wide uptake by commercial innovators.

The reports produced following the conclusion of the programmes can enable any NHS organisation to rapidly progress innovative solutions along the health and social care commissioning and adoption pathways.
